IIBP delivers accessible, high-quality online short courses and micro-credentials, sourced from industry-recognized training framework.

AUSTRALASIAN TRAINING COLLEGE

ATC delivers its accredited programs in accordance with the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF) and is regulated by the Australian Skills Quality Authority (ASQA).

APEA is an organization that connects education providers in Australia and the Philippines. It supports skills development through accessible and accredited pathways, promoting international collaboration in education and training.

It works under the unified vision of "Skills Without Borders", helping learners and institutions gain globally recognized qualifications and professional growth opportunities.

APEG Media is the digital storytelling and engagement arm of the Asia Pacific Education Group.

We empower institutions to build authentic, high-impact digital presence through in-house expertise in website design, video production, social media strategy, and content creation.

Because in today's world, learning doesn't just happen in classrooms — it goes viral.

University of Makati · Follow

A pioneering milestone in international academic linkages and lifelong learning, the University of Makati stands as the first local university and college in the Philippines whose micro-credential certificates are recognized for credits in an Australian college.

Meanwhile, the Asia Pacific Education Group (APEG) conferred the Honorary Fellow Lifetime Achievement Award on University President Elyxzur Ramos in recognition of his significant contributions and innovative ideas that have greatly benefited the organization, the broader educational landscape, and the community.

APEG, a partner of UMak since June 2024, is extending its skills-based training programs to UMak students, offering opportunities to earn micro-credentials in areas such as cybersecurity, leadership and management, digital marketing, and many others.
